The President's Notes

Lou Haynes (bdhaynes@one.net)

The weather has cooled off and local fishing has slowed down a bit. It's time to spruce-up the fishing equipment, restock the vest, catch-up on fly tying and reminisce about the nice ones we caught and the bigger ones that got away. Some of us will journey to warmer climates to fish this winter, a few hardy souls will battle the winter elements in pursuit of the magnificent steelhead, and the rest of us will hibernate for the winter waiting for spring fishing to arrive.

Fortunately, not all is lost for those of us who hibernate as there are several fly fishing events coming up. Here is a partial list:

- 1). Advanced fly tying classes start Friday night, January $5^{\rm th}$ and run for several weeks. These will be held at the Springdale Community Center. Check with Ken West for details
- 2). The North Coast Fly Fishers are hosting the Cleveland Fly Tying Expo on Saturday, January 13. Buff will have a fly tying table at the event. Any BUFFers interested in tying for our club please contact me. For Expo details visit the North Coast Club website: www.expo2007.ncff.net.
- 3). The Derby City Fly Fishers are holding their 2^{nd} annual Fly Fishing Show on Saturday, January 27, in Louisville. Our club will have a booth at their show. For details check the Derby City website: www.derbycityflyfishers.com
- 4). The BUFF Greater Cincinnati Fly Fishing Show is schedule for February 10 at the Receptions Conference and Banquet Center in Fairfield. Details will be forthcoming. Our show coordinator, Mike Bryant, will need several volunteers to help during the show. Please sign-up to help Mike.
- 5). Our Cabin Relief Banquet is set for Saturday, March 3rd. This function is our primary fund raising event. Come and join the fun. Details later.
- 6). The BUFF Fly Fishing 101 Course for beginners and intermediate-skilled fishers will be held on Tuesday nights in March at the Springdale Community Center. Details will be provided at the February general meeting and in the BUFFER.

A Southwest Camping Trip In Search of Trout (Part I)

Bill Schroeder

This past fall, my wife Kathy and I packed our 19' Airstream and headed out on a southwest loop that took us through Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Texas, New Mexico, and Colorado before heading back home across Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, and Indiana to our home in Maineville, Ohio. Our trip lasted five weeks in all, and included stops to visit family and friends in Texas, some sight seeing in New Mexico, a 10 day adventure babysitting grandkids in Denver. We were also able to plan a route that included stops at some great trout venues in Arkansas (Little Red River) New Mexico (San Juan River below Navajo Reservoir), and Colorado (the Arkansas River near Buena Vista and Clear Creek which flows through Golden Gate Canyon down into Golden, Colorado. These are great trout fishing places and each is a story in itself.

Arkansas was our first stop for a great trout fishing experience. On September 10th I again was privileged to fish the Little Red River on a guided float trip with guide Jamie Roush. This was a trip I had acquired at the Buff Banquet a year or so ago, but had not yet used. It was my fifth guided fishing day with Jamie, since I first met him at the Buff trip to the Little Red River in 2002. Jamie has been very generous with trip donations to Buff over the years and I regard him as my favorite fishing guide. If you enjoy pictures of big fish, check out Jamie's web site at http://www.jamierouse.net/. Being it was early September, we were two or three weeks ahead of the great spawning migration of brown trout up the Little Red River toward the dam at Heber Springs that this river is famous for. So Jamie and I had to settle for a more ordinary trip in which I caught around 40 rainbows ranging from 14" to 18" in size. These fish are a little smaller than the huge browns that are caught later in the fall, but they are plentiful, and full of color and fight.

Having fished the Little Red twice during the famous fall brown trout migration, and also in February and September, I actually prefer the less crowded rainbow fishing that is available during the "off season" to the sometimes crowded fall brown extravaganza. That is because there are fewer fishermen overall, and most of the fly fishermen encountered are locals whom I have found to be good sportsmen and polite to visitors. True, you are less likely to tie into a 20" brown trout if you are not there during that October to December spawning time. But you are more likely to enjoy long, lovely stretches of the river to yourself.

For three nights we camped at the John F. Kennedy Park just below the dam that forms Greers Ferry Lake, near Heber Springs, Arkansas. There is also good fishing in the lake above the dam, for striped bass and other species. Jamie also offers guided fishing trips up on the lake, using a completely different boat and rigging, but I am so passionate about the trout fishing, I have never tried it. The Kennedy campground has excellent sites for RVs as well as tents, with level concrete pads, and clean rest rooms with hot showers. But like most Corps of Engineers facilities, it offers electric hook-ups, but no water or sewer at the sites. The best part though, proximity to the river which runs right by the campsites, and is full of trout. The dam is used to generate electricity, and the level of the river rises rapidly when they are doing so, usually once a day. But the periods of generation don't usually last long, and as the river quickly recedes back to its normal level, the fishing can be resumed.

Federation Of Fly Fishers

"Lefty's View"

Tim Findley

There has been much discussion lately on the value of the Buckeye United Fly Fishers being associated / members of the Federation of Fly Fishers (FFF). I initially set out to write a short paragraph on the benefits of the FFF with respect to B.U.F.F.. As I started doing a little fact finding, I stumbled across the following article buried in the FFF Web-Site, written by Lefty Kreh. This article comes from one of the Masters in our sport, and it shows his deep passion for fly fishing and the FFF. I don't want this to sound like a I am using the BUFFER as a FREE Advertisement Outlet for the FFF, rather I feel this may help answer common questions that come up frequently concerning the FFF.

"Dear Fellow Flyfisher:

Is flyfishing as important to you as it is to me?

I get alot of value out of my sport, perhaps because I see flyfishing as much more than a simple pastime. To me, it's a special way of looking at the world. In fact, flyfishing gives me a perspective on conservation and the environment unlike anything else. I believe it comes from the tradition and the commitment to beauty which are so much a part of the sport. That, in turn leads to a unique appreciation for the natural world. And that is why I flyfish. That also explains why I am a member of the Federation of Fly Fishers and why I am so eager for you to join me as a member of the only non-profit organization dedicated to promoting the sport of flyfishing. Now, you are quite correct if you say there are many other fine conservation groups you could join. But do they really believe in flyfishing? Or will you just be lumped in with all the spinning rods and baitcasting reels? When you join the FFF, the answer is always flyfishing. And that's important, if you take your sport as seriously as I do.

Let me give you just one example of why the Federation counts. In Oregon, public officials quietly decided it was time to open all that state's fly fishing waters to anglers with spinning and baitcasting rods. It was a decision which disregarded decades of special regulation and even threatened to allow salmon snagging on some of these prized lakes and streams.

And nobody cared! Nobody, that is except the Federation of Fly Fishers.

We argued that these historic set-asides were too valuable to lose, and we emphasized that thewaters were special only because flyfishers had made them so. We stood alone, but we stood firm. And today, because of the Federation of Fly Fishers, those special regulation waters remain. Is Oregon the lone example? Not at all. The same thing happened in Michigan, where officials decided that waters made special by flyfishers should no longer be preserved for flyfishing. But once more, the Federation was there. And the world's only organized voice for fly fishing prevailed again in ensuring a future for special waters. Surely, it makes you wonder whether your waters are next. And if they are, to whom will you turn to for help if not to the FFF?

Is the Federation's sole mission to protect flyfishing only rules? No, our vision is much broader than that. But FFF's philosophy of conserving, restoring and educating through flyfishing gives us a unique perspective that has proven important time after time. Few things demonstrate that point better than our commitment to catch-and-release. Other organizations may embrace catch-and-release, but FFF was the first to preach this essential philosophy for managing our fisheries. We also realized that its' importance went well beyond the trout stream, extending to all fish in all waters. And today catch-and-release is practiced throughout the world. Trout stream, bass lake, saltwater flat: Our leadership has influenced them all.

What more can I say to demonstrate the value of joining FFF? There is, in fact, so much more, from youth programs to local stream projects. From protecting fisheries to supporting efforts aimed at containing whirling disease on our western trout streams. And as an FFF member, you'll be kept up to date through the quarterly Flyfisher magazine.

But the real key to understanding the Federation is the realization that we are the only flyfishing organization. We don't pay lip service to the image; flyfishing defines the Federation's very soul. And let me emphasize that point: Nobody else shares your flyfishing perspective. Nobody else represents your flyfishing interests. Nobody else cares about you as a flyfisher. Go ahead, look around. And if you find another national organization with FFF's dedication to flyfishing conservation and education, let me know, because I'll want to be a part of that group. Until then, the decision to become a Federation member is easy.

We may live in different part of the country, even different parts of the world. And there's a good chance we fish for different species. But we share a unique bond through flyfishing, you and I. And that's why I'm counting on you to send in your membership today to the world's only flyfishing organization. Just $29 a year to join the only organization dedicated to conserving, restoring and educating through flyfishing. Trust me, it's where every flyfisher belongs.

Regards,

Bernard "Lefty" Kreh, Life Member, Federation of Fly Fishers"

"P.S. I mean it when I say the FFF is the world's only flyfishing organization. But if you show me any other national association whose primary mission is conserving, restoring andeducating through flyfishing, we will refund your first year's dues in the FFF. That's more than a promise. It's my no risk guarantee to you as a new member in the Federation of Fly Fishers."

The Greater Cincinnati Fly Fishing Show™

Mike Bryant

Mark your calendars! The Greater Cincinnati Fly Fishing ShowTM is coming on Saturday, February 10, 2007. The Greater Cincinnati Fly Fishing ShowTM will continue its focus on providing both experienced and prospective new fly fishers timely information on the great sport of fly fishing. Our goal is to educate, inform and to have fun. During the Show, we hope to offer and familiarize attendees with available local, regional and national fly fishing resources. Same great Show, same great low admission of only $5.00 per person, and children 12 and under are still admitted free. This year's presentations include searching for wild trout in the Smoky Mountains, discovering fly fishing opportunities in Chile's Patagonia region, and exploring the famous fly fishing streams of south central Pennsylvania. Included with your admission is attendance to all three presentations, both exhibitor halls, the fly tying island, fly tying demonstrations, and a chance to win some door prizes!! Make sure you bring your friends, family members, and especially kids to the Show. The Kid's Corner is being updated and expanded.

Kid's Corner

This year we are adding some additional interactive fun for the kids in the Kids Corner. Kids 12 and under are going to have their own fly tying contest, also a few new ways to win some great kids prizes. Of course we will once again have the Blue Ribbon Bug collection from Ethan Echstein.

Be sure to stop by and cast your vote for the best kid's fly.

The Show will be held at the Receptions Conference Center, located off of Route 4 in Fairfield (only minutes from I-275). This is the same facility we used last year.

Location:

Receptions Conference Center, Fairfield, OH (northern Cincinnati suburb)
Date: Saturday, February 10, 2007
Time: 9:00a.m. – 4:30 p.m.

In addition to the presentations and the fly tying activities, there will be numerous exhibits that include fly shops, guides, outfitters, clubs, state and local resources, and much more. We plan to have new exhibitors as well as old favorites.

There's something for everyone. Check out B.U.F.F.'s website (www.buckeyeflyfishers.com) for more information. So mark your calendars, and we will see you at the Greater Cincinnati Fly Fishing ShowTM on Saturday, February 10, 2007.
